"Pranks"

Where maturity and freedom collide

I have just watched a U-tube video of the British league team demolishing a door in Dunedin in some sort of weird ritual called "run through the door". Clearly it was a soft cored door and in scarfie land of run down student accommodation – not 5 seconds of destruction, but 5 seconds of improvement! (A new door.)

There was a time when travelling sports teams would demolish a motel or hotel room as some sort of bizarre ritual – "that's what sports teams do on tour".

Schoolie week in Australia has become an industry where material wreckage and human wreckage become collateral damage to some bizarre ritual which has "freedom" and "maturity" clothed in words like "we are only having fun".

My first year at St Peter's College saw a classroom prefab being systematically demolished in some bizarre "freedom" ritual at the end of the year. When confronted the students denied all knowledge (except 2 boys) and their parents when asked to pay for the damage – said it was none of their business!

Pranks which have humour and intellectual thinking, combined with social awareness (e.g. stopping climate change, preserving whales in the Southern Ocean or defending the right to have a friendship of the same sex etc), can be seen for the statements they make.

Pranks which involve vandalism of property, ripping up trees – defaming of teachers and their families, gross bad taste, throwing eggs at teachers' houses, theft of property etc and condoned by their parents (sometimes encouraged), has to be seen in a different light.

The problem is that there is no such thing as a one sided prank.

Some students cannot see the difference between a prank which injures the dignity of people or destroys property, and a prank that uplifts thinking and/or social awareness. Unfortunately it appears some parents can't explain those differences to their children.

Going back to the smash-the-door ritual by the British league team. It is to be hoped that the cost of the 5 seconds improvement to the scarfie flat was paid by all the men in the group acting collectively in support!

Congratulations:

1) At the recent Showdown Awards Mr John Hellyer was recognised as the best show director in Auckland secondary schools and Urinetown as the best school musical for 2014. Jared Morello as the best supporting actor in a musical.

2) To the men of St Peter's College for donating $20,000 to De Paul House whose mission is lifting the dignity of people when misfortune occurs. Felix (Head boy) presented the cheque on behalf of the school.

Reminder:

The College prizegiving years 7 – 13 is on 3rd December at 7:15pm at the Logan Campbell Centre, Auckland Showgrounds. All boys expected in school uniform.

In His Peace

The St Peter's Man is a Man of Faith

Leavers' Mass 2014

Our Year 13 Leavers for 2014 were farewelled last Thursday with a Mass of celebration at St Michael's Parish. St Peter's College Chaplain Fr Tony Dunn led the Eucharist, during which he challenged the young men to be a witness to the values of their Catholic faith in their lives beyond St Peter's College.

The Mass also included reflections from St Peter's students on their years at SPC. Prefect and 1st XV captain Romero Tagi recalled the central importance of the values of the college – Faith, Respect, Excellence, Service, Heart, and Presence. Romero commented that these values...

...have become embedded in me. This year, being my last, I now realise how natural these attributes appear in my everyday activity...I believe this is what separates a St Peters Man from any other student.

While Prefect Jakob McCaffrey recalled the community-building nature of the college saying:

St Peter's gives you the opportunity to involve yourself in its community - in whatever aspect, be that special character, sport, culture or academic - as well as imparting the knowledge that just because you will no longer be on the list of students for 2015 does not mean that you will no longer be a part of this school.

We wish Romero and Jakob and all of Year 13 the very best for their continued faith journey in the years to come. And, as Jakob rightly pointed out, all Leavers are invited to continue their involvement with St Peter's through our various Special Character, academic, sporting, musical and cultural pursuits. On that note, all 2014 Leavers with an interest in helping with the Year 7, 10 and 12 Old-Boy-run retreats in 2015 should contact Old Boy Retreat supervisor Patrick Fitzgibbon on 02102465073.

Good Intentions are only half the formula

The anguishing account of the 17 year old boy stabbed to death at a party in Grey Lynn earlier this month is a tragedy that scares all of us as parents.

The young victim was shopping at Henderson's night market and went to pick up a friend where he was confronted by a large group of people from a nearby Halloween party. The victim is described as someone who doesn't drink or smoke.

There was an altercation among some people and this resulted in the tragedy.

A few weeks on perhaps now is the right time to consider lessons that can be learned for our children?

Perhaps the lesson is, despite best intentions, circumstances can quickly change and move beyond ones control. For teenagers these circumstances can be even harder to identify given their age and relatively short time on the planet.

In dealing with a recent situation at the school it has been encouraging to deal with a number of parents who identify as the College does, that despite good intentions it is important to recognise that intentions do not guarantee a positive result. The many Parents that recognise for their son that - these good intentions that turn into negative incidents - are a rare opportunity to teach their son a valuable life lesson is something the College also values.

Although circumstances often move beyond our control (as seems to be the case with the Grey Lynn stabbing) most of the time our teenage sons do have the following available to them:

1. The time to make a hard decision ("the 5 second rule" as Mr Fouhy often says.)
2. The experience to know how their friends might act in an uncertain environment and that association can mean implication.
3. The intelligence to recognise possible/probable results of negative actions.
4. The values from home and school that teaches them to listen to and trust that conscience voice inside them.

It's been a good year and the junior boys are looking forward to exams next week – a weekend ahead full of study!

God's Blessings

Middle School Report

As we are in the middle of end of year examinations in the Middle School and the weeks are flying past at a rate of knots it will be easy for students and parents alike to start to think about next year and what changes will occur. For some change is hard to deal with and can really put people out of their comfort zones, granted this is not always a negative.

For students in Year 8 they will be leaving the Middle School and entering a new stage of schooling in the Senior School. This can be daunting as there is a change of surroundings and more movement between classes and more teachers. Others are more concerned about being separated from friends and having to be in a classroom with different and new students. All of these concerns are okay and it is natural to be anxious, though rest assured that Saint Peter's will look after the young men very well as they transition into Year 9 and all classes are selected based on data collected in the Middle School. This of course will mean that students will be in new classes and this is rewarding as it gives all students a chance to meet different set of students and at times make new friends along the way. I encourage students to look forward to the challenge and also ensure that they take up all the opportunities that the Senior School has on offer, the middle School is the start of a 7 year journey and all Middle School staff wish students the best of luck as they progress up the years.

Recently the Middle School Athletics were held at Mount Smart Stadium where all students competed in a range of events. From the 100m to 1,500m on the track and in the field High and Long Jump were tough events, though new to this year was the Vortex throw which was certainly a favourite for students.

A huge thank you to Mr Billy Hadnett for organising such an impressive day. The important part of the day was to get every student involved in a number of events, though there were some clear winners on the day, with over 20 students qualifying for the Central Athletics day later in the term. The winners on the day and a big congratulations in year 7 goes to Aiden Merrick and in year 8 Liam Back. The best of luck to all students competing for higher honours.
